POPULISTS WILL NOMINATE GRAHAM AT THEIR CONVENTION HERE TONIGHT WHEN ALL COUNTY DELEGATES ARRIVE

Nine Counties Are Represented
Now, They Say.

Expect to Put Up Fight and Poll Big Vote.

Independence Party Will Hold a Conference.

Will Put Ticket in Field in This County.

Owing to the failure of some of the Populist delegates from the First district to arrive on time the convention was postponed until tonight, but it is practically certain that J. W. Graham will be nominated for congress in the First district.

Nine counties were represented here this morning, but word was received that some of the other delegates were delayed, so those present stated, and they decided to wait their coming. A long distance message from Mr. Cardin, at View, stated that he is ill and could not come.

Delegates said they expect to poll the biggest vote in years.

Independence Party.

Tomorrow morning the state executive committee of the Independence party will hold a meeting in Paducah to discuss plans for fall campaign and secure speakers. It is probable that William Randolph Hearst, Thomas L. Higen and W. M. Howard will be brought to Paducah when they make their swing through Kentucky. They will speak in Louisville, and it is thought that they may come to Paducah about September 15.

J. E. Merrick and Jo A. Parker, state national committee, arrived today from Louisville and will meet with Mr. Joseph Desinger, the third committeeman. Mr. Parker, besides being a national committeeman, has charge of the work in the states of Missouri, Tennessee and Kentucky.

According to the members, a local ticket will be put out this year, although a candidate may not be secured for every office. Mr. W. R. Davis announced today as a candidate for county jailer on the Independence ticket. Mr. Davis is the well known machinist at the Illinois Central shops.

After the meeting tomorrow, Mr. Merrick will remain over and will make an address Labor Day at the celebration at Maxon Mills. He will speak on "Trades Unions."

School Opening

The janitors of the public schools will begin work Monday of cleaning the building ready for school. Supplies were drawn today and Superintendent Carney outlined their duties to them. The buildings will be made sanitary in every respect and ready for school September 14.

The session will begin Monday, September 14, in all of the schools; but all children that have not secured entrance cards should call at the superintendent's office next week, and avoid the rush the first days of school. All children must be vaccinated before they are eligible to attend school.

Their heads were chopped off and carried away in triumph. Two other French officers were slain and a number of soldiers wounded.

Three-Year-Old Lost.

Little John Gardner, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Gardner, 509 Washington street, wandered from home this morning and was out seeing the wonders of the world. At Sixth street and Broadway Truant Officer Jack Nelson found him, but the little fellow was unable to tell his name. After a search his parents were located, and the little fellow was glad to be returned home.

Bridegroom Murdered

Chicago, Sept. 5.—John Griegal, 25 years old, was found murdered at his boarding house. He had been dead two days. His head was crushed. He had a hundred dollars and was about to marry. Robbery is the supposed motive.

Long Distance Wireless

Won't Recognize Mulai

Paris, Sept. 5.—The foreign office is informed that every power included in the Algeiras treaty has notified Germany that it won't consider the proposal of the latter, to recognize Mulai Hafid as sultan of Morocco.

Henry Bennett Will Sue

It is reported that Henry Bennett, of Dycusburg, who was a victim of the night riders' lash, will file suit in the federal court in a few days for damages. It is said that a number of citizens of Lyon and Trigg counties will be made defendants in the suits. Several attempts have been made to kill Bennett and his home is guarded by a detachment of soldiers. Bennett has made frequent trips to Paducah to see Paducah attorneys.

Plucky Woman Defends Home

After wounding an unknown man, who was prowling about the back yard, Mrs. Martin Kelly, 416 Ohio street, went into the back yard and took another shot at the intruder this morning about 2 o'clock. Mrs. Kelly was alone, and hearing a noise at the back porch she secured a pistol and took a shot at the figure of a man standing in the yard. He reached for his knee as if he had been struck, but did not leave. Mrs. Kelly walked on the porch and the man retreated and jumped over the fence, but Mrs. Kelly took a second shot at the man in the alley. Not until then did the man run. Nothing was missed from the house.

BANQUET PRINCE WHILE THOUSANDS STARVE TO DEATH

Glasgow, Sept. 5.—Enraged at the city's extravagance in giving an elaborate luncheon to Prince Arthur while thousands of citizens are on the verge of starvation. Socialists and unemployed attacked the city hall and attempted to mob the prince. Many were injured by the police.

Library Asks More Money

Trustees of the public library have asked Andrew Carnegie for another donation of $5,000 for improvements to the building. Redecorating and some extensions are contemplated. If Mr. Carnegie accedes to the request, the total investment by him will amount to $40,000, and under the terms of the original gift the city's annual appropriation will be increased $500.

House of Joy Turned Into House of Mourning When Mrs. J. M. Buckner Suddenly Succumbs to Her Malady

Prominent Woman Expires at Her Home Day After Young est Daughter Weds—Sad
News for Bride.

Six hours after the wedding party left the residence, 809 Jefferson street, yesterday, after the marriage of Miss Garnett Buckner to Mr. Guy Martin, Mrs. J. M. Buckner, mother of the bride, was stricken with complete paralysis, and remained in that condition, unconscious, until she passed peacefully away this morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Telegrams were sent to the Great Northern Hotel, Chicago, where Mr. and Mrs. Martin should have arrived this morning. No answer has been received, but relatives are looking for them to return on the evening train.

Mrs. J. N. Burns, a daughter, of St. Joe, Mo., and a son, Murrell Buckner, of Dallas, Texas, have started; and J. M. and Paul Buckner and Mrs. Herman Netherloft, of Louisville, will arrive this evening. A telegram from Battle Creek, Mich., stated that Frank Buckner left there this morning for home. These comprise all Mrs. Buckner's children, besides Mrs. D. M. Plourney, of this city, who was called to her mother's residence last night.

Mrs. Buckner sustained a similar attack last March, while visiting her daughter, Mrs. Burns, at St. Joe, Mo. She apparently had fully recovered from the attack and seemed as well as usual yesterday. The attack came at bedtime last night, just as she was preparing to retire. She was totally unconscious and the paralysis was complete from the start.

Cannon for Keynote

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Cannon, it is said, will be slated for the chairmanship of the Springfield convention to make the keynote speech.

PETITION FOR PAROLE OF DR. CHAMPION, CONVICTED NIGHT RIDER, BEING PASSED

Birmingham and Calvert City
People Sign it, But Benton
People Are Declining to Interfere.

Benton, Ky., Sept. 5.—(Special.)—Marshall county is considerably stirred over a petition being circulated for the parole of Dr. Champion, who was convicted for participating in the Birmingham night rider raid and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. The petition recites that Champion was tried by a partisan jury from McCracken county and unjustly sentenced, and the signers believe he is innocent. Friends of Circuit Judge William Reed, who tried Champion, and was responsible for the McCracken county jury trying the case, regard the petition as a reflection on him and are up in arms. The petition is finding plenty of signers in the Birmingham section, where the raid took place and around Gilbertsville, but Benton people are not signing the petition.

RAWHIDE'S FIRE LOSS IS MILLION ---MANY HOMELESS

Rawhide, Nev., Sept. 5.—A million dollar loss and 200 people homeless and facing starvation as the result of Friday's fire. Relief trains are arriving from all directions. Rebuilding will begin immediately. No lives were lost.

VICTIM OF FOURTH.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The American Medical Association Journal says 5,623 were maimed or killed July fourth. Twelve hundred and ten more than last year. It vigorously advocates a sane fourth.

CHAIR PUSHER IS ARRESTED BUT NO FACTS GIVEN OUT

Atlantic City, Sept. 5.—Jesse Jackson, the negro chair pusher, witness to the Roberts shooting, was arrested today and held on $500 bail. The cause of his arrest is unknown. Police hint at sensational developments. The chief of detectives states that Jackson positively denies the published interview, repudiating the highwayman theory.

Senatorial Committee

The executive committee of the Democratic party in this senatorial district probably will be called to meet within the next week to decide upon the time and manner of nominating a candidate for state senator to succeed Senator Wheeler Campbell. Just eight weeks remain before the party law, 40 days must be given candidates to make a campaign. Judge E. Barry, of Benton, is the only announced candidate for the position so far, and he has already made a canvass of the counties in the district. The district is composed of the counties of McCracken, Marshall, Carlisle and Ballard.

Fleet on Schedule

Melbourne, Sept. 5.—The fleet sailed this morning for Albany, maintaining the twelve knot average. The fleet is keeping dates almost to the minute.

Colts and Candidates

Frisky colts and busy candidates constituted the attraction that took large crowds to Ragland this morning. The first Saturday in September is annual colt show day at that place and the candidates for county and district offices went out to see the farmers, who went to see the colts. About 500 people were in attendance, including the candidates.

WEATHER.

RAIN

Showers tonight and possibly Sunday, warmer east portion tonight. Highest temperature yesterday, 80; lowest today, 62.

UNLICENSED DOGS TO BE CAPTURED AND PUT TO DEATH

City Finance Committee Directs Chief of Police to Detain Man for Work.

Delinquent Polls Will be Collected Promptly.

IMPORTANT MEETING IS HELD

Every year there is enacted in Paducah an al fresco production of the "Mysterious Friend, or the Rescue of the Dogs," with the river bank as the stage and the city as the "Angel," but the finance committee of the general council last night decided to give owners of unlicensed dogs a lesson that will insure prompt payment hereafter. A few months ago a wagon was hired for a few days and a lot of strays were gathered up and staked out on the river bank. As before, the unknown hero of the play appeared opportunely the night before execution and set them all free.

At last night's meeting the committee instructed Chief of Police Collins to put Stock Policeman Lycurgus Rice to work spying out unlicensed dogs and their owners. He will work systematically and canvass the whole city. He also has instructions to avoid all dramatic situations and to put the dogs he catches to death forthwith. The committee considered that delinquent owners have had notice enough.

Collecting Poll Taxes.

Plans whereby poll taxes may be collected as promptly as real estate taxes were considered, and the city solicitor will be directed to prepare an ordinance, authorizing the city treasurer to adopt means to enforce collections. At present real estate delinquencies are advertised, while delinquent polls are let alone until four or five years pass, and then the city goes to extraordinary expense in collecting them. It was the opinion of the finance committee, to which City Auditor Kirkland addressed a communication, that the city could collect taxes more cheaply and expeditiously by empowering the treasurer to take the necessary steps without delay.

Must Furnish Own Lights.

The public library board was instructed by the finance committee that, in view of the fact that the city's funds are low and the library board had a balance from last year, it should pay the expenses of improving the lighting facilities by rewiring.

Driveway on Levee.

The board of public works was requested to investigate the feasibility of 20-foot driveways down the levee from Broadway and Kentucky avenue to the wharfboat entrances. Teamsters complain that they cannot haul moderate loads up and down the levee, because their horses cannot stand up on the slippery cobbles.

E. H. Parry reported that he has the revision of the city ordinance nearly completed and was granted further time.

Sun Worshipper

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 5.—Mrs. Ellen Shaw, for years a society leader, has sold her handsome home and is going to Denver to devote herself to the promotion of the sun worship propaganda.

Second Story Work

Some clever thief climbed up a ladder to the second story of the Paducah Light and Power company, 406 Broadway, last night and made a good haul on clothes. The building was gone over well, but the safe was not tampered with. Mr. H. C. Foss is minus a $35 overcoat, while Mr. Charles Bell is the loser of a pair of trousers, hat and shirt. In the pocket of the trousers was a roll of $25 and the thief took this, too. No clew was left, and the burglar made a neat get away.

SHOT CHAUFFEUR WHEN HIS SON WAS KILLED BY AUTO

Genoa, Sept. 5.—Angelo Galloni, an engineer, seeing his little son killed by an automobile, shot and killed the chauffeur and wounded the sister of the Marchioness or Revedin. The machine, driverless, upset, injuring the marchioness. Both women are dying.

When we hear sounded a strident call to the defense of popular rights, we look carefully to see who constitute the new patriotic army, into whose keeping we are asked to turn over the destinies of the great nation. The campaign watchword, "shall the people rule?" is not impressive when emblazoned on the banners of Tammany Hall. The army opposing us cannot pass muster either as one of defense or salvation.—Governor Hughes speech.

GOVERNOR HUGHES, OF NEW YORK, OPENS REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN WITH BIG SPEECH

Auspicious Presentation of Taft's Candidacy in His Native State at Big Republican Rally.

YOUNGSTOWN HAS HONOR OF ENTERTAINING HOSTS OF PARTISANS AND HEARING OPENING GUN OF FIGHT

New York's Chief Executive Sees in Taft, Man of the Hour and Gives Reasons in Magnificent Address.

Youngstown, Ohio, Sept. 5.—Beautiful weather and a big crowd made the Republican campaign opening a great success. There are 75,000 visitors and profuse decorations. The streets are crowded with marching clubs, bands and automobiles carrying distinguished guests. The parade moved at 11 o'clock. Over 10,000 mill workers and 5,000 members of marching clubs were in line.

The speaking was at 2 o'clock, at Wick park. Governor Harris was the first speaker, Hughes and Beveridge followed.

Congressman Kennedy was temporary chairman and Arthur Vorys, permanent chairman. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. Scharbrooke, president of Wilberforce University.

Vorys' brief opening address eulogized Roosevelt, Taft, Beveridge and Hughes.

Governor Hughes said: "The Republican party makes appeal to public confidence as the most important political agency for conservation and for progress. By virtue of its achievements, its leadership and its aims, it stands forth as an efficient instrument for strong and capable administration; as a safeguard of stability, and of the prosperity which depends upon stability, and as an unrivaled power for the correction of abuses. It stands in striking contrast to the record of vacillation and ineptitude presented by the chief opposing party. That opposing party proffers a candidacy which it at once a monument and a guide-post. It memorializes the failures and misadventures we are asked to forget, and it points the way to business uncertainty and to the impairment of the confidence which is the security of industry and trade.

"When we hear sounded a strident call to the defense of popular rights, we look carefully to see who the new patriotic army into whose keeping we are asked to turn over the destinies of this great nation. The campaign watchwords 'shall the people rule?' and 'the demand for a more business asset of favor-seeking corporations' are not impressive when emblazoned on the banners of Tammany Hall and of other essential allies. The army opposing us cannot pass muster either as one of defense or of salvation, and we may well pause before we permit it, despite its boast of fidelity to garrison our institutions.

Mr. Taft's Candidacy.
"No one more than I desires to see administration purged of every selfish taint, to have fair and impartial laws faithfully executed, to get rid of every vestige of special privilege at the expense of public interest, to liberate trade from unjust encroachments, to purify our electoral methods and to maintain honest and representative government. And it is because of his loyalty to these ideals, because of his broad sympathies and his rare equipment in character, ability and experience, because tested in the difficult fields of judicial and administrative work he has proved his quality by eminent service, because of his varied learning, his acquaintance with affairs, his respect for constitutional government and his capacity intelligently and justly to plan and direct necessary reforms that I most earnestly support the candidacy of William Howard Taft.

Popular Rule.
"Twelve years the Democracy of Tilden and of Cleveland was overthrown in its own house. Under the old name, with a new alignment and leadership, a desperate assault was made upon the credit of the country and the integrity of private debts. It was an attack upon our fundamental securities, and our belief as to the sincerity of the motive serves only to magnify the dangerous character of the attempt and the unwisdom of the leadership which inspired it. A campaign of education followed. Thousands of democrats, more intent upon the safety of the country than upon fidelity to a party name, itself betrayed, supported the Republican, or rather the national, cause. Then ensued a great popular victory, the vindication of the conscience and intelligence of the electorate, and the people ruled in the election of William McKinley. Four years later, after the surprises of the Spanish war, with its entanglement of unexpected obligations, that administration was triumphantly vindicated in popular support. President McKinley, a victim of insensate passion, laid down his life trusted and beloved by all the people. To the difficult task then developed upon him with the problems created by an unparalleled prosperity, came a new leader dear to the people's heart. He entered upon his work with courage and determination, and four years ago he received an overwhelming vote of popular confidence. For seven years, with lofty aim and unconquerable spirit he has labored for the people, and today by virtue of his sincere devotion to their welfare, his valiant attack upon evil in high places, his zeal for the common interest, whether in the protection of the public domain or in insistence upon the freedom of interstate trade, or in the maintenance of high standards of administration, or in the recognition of the rights of labor or in the care of our national resources, the forceful and representative leader is typified in the popular imagination in the person of Theodore Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt Administration.

It is easy for those who are free of its responsibilities to criticize administration, and criticism is wholesome and stimulating. Mr. Bryan is an eloquent critic, but the record of the Republican party is known to all, and the American people will neither be confused nor misled by adroit thrust or pleader's skill. Their good judgment may be trusted to maintain a proper sense of proportion and to make a just estimate of the work which has been accomplished.

"The business of the great national departments has been in worthy and competent hands. The mention alone of the names of Hay, Root and Taft suffices to call attention to

Scores Pastor.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 5.—(Special.)—In refusing a change of venue for T. S. Anderson, bank wrecker, Judge Birkhead severely scored a local preacher, who attempted to show that Anderson could not get a fair trial here.

Stolen Articles Recovered

Carrie Cago, colored, was arrested today by Patrolman Owens. She kept a small second-hand store at Teith and Harris streets, and some of the articles in the store have been identified. An umbrella belonging to Miss Hattie Ross, stenographer in Police Judge Cross' office, was recovered and a fine from belonging to Mrs. L. Snyder, 1198 Trimble street. Miss Ross spied a negro carrying the fern on the street, and an investigation was made and other missing articles were found. A rug and table belonging to M. Holehan, 1040 Trimble street, were located also.

INTERESTING

EXPERIMENTS MADE BY A WELL-KNOWN CHICAGO FIRM.

Showing How Any Kind of Food
Can Be Digested Even in Glass Tubes.

Mr. James A. Marshall, special representative of E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, was in our office today, and made some very interesting statements regarding the process of digestion; not only how it is carried on naturally in the stomach, but how artificial digestion is produced, even in glass tubes.

Mr. Marshall explained how they take different kinds of food, such as beef, pork, eggs, potatoes, beans, cheese, pie and coffee, place same in an ordinary grinding mill, so as to artificially chew, or macerate the food, then place it in a glass tumbler or test tube, pouring on same a table spoonful or so of KODOL. The tube is then placed in warm water about the same temperature of a healthy stomach. It is shaken now and then to give it the churning motion of the stomach and in about the same time, or even less, than is required by a healthy stomach, every particle of food is completely digested in the glass tube, and this perfect digestion is brought about by KODOL and nothing else.

It is certainly interesting and gratifying to know that E. C. DeWitt & Co., have succeeded in perfecting a harmless preparation, which will possibly, under any conditions, digest any kind of food that we eat. KODOL digests all we eat, because it supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy, vigorous stomach. Furthermore, there is not a drop of harm in a gallon of KODOL.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., are spending thousands of dollars this year in the public press, explaining the various ailments of the stomach and offering to let any one test KODOL on a guarantee that it will do what is claimed for it, or money refunded. Through their representative they have arranged to insert in our paper a series of very interesting and educational articles on diseases of the stomach;
how to make weak stomachs strong;
and how to improve the general health. These articles will appear from week to week, and it behooves every reader to note and read same carefully.

THE SULTAN'S SPY HID IN NEW YORK

Zia Bey Tells of His Life in Secret Service.

Takes Passage On Steamer for England Lest He Be Caught and Extradited.

SAYS HE WAS CRUEL HIMSELF.

New York, Sept. 5.—It became known that Zia Bey, who up to the time the sultan granted Turkey a constitution was the chief of Abdul Hamid's secret police, and who fled in terror from Constantinople when the Young Turks gained the ascendency, was in his country until yesterday, when he sailed for Europe on the Mauretania.

Fearing that his presence here had become known and that he might be forced to return to Turkey, Zia Bey hastily engaged passage on the Cunard for England.

"Yes, I am Zia Bey, the chief spy of the sultan, the wretch, the rascal, the mischief doer," he said in an interview at the Hotel LaFayette. "I was a fool. I have been cruel, heartless and done many things which a man of conscience would not do."

"But do you blame me? I was brought up in that life. From my childhood I saw one plotting against the other. I saw graft, cruelty, and followed the steps of others for my own promotion. From an obscure Tartar origin, I advanced to become the prefect of the police in Constantinople, and was then promoted to the Yildiz Kiosk to deal with the secrets of the government. I am not to be blamed for what has been. It was the system, the policy of Abdul Hamid to surround himself with dishonest men. Sultan Hamid is an intelligent man, but suspicious, selfish, cruel and corrupt. His face is imposing, but cowardice and fear are constant in his eyes."

Many Met Secret Death.

Lil was head spy next to Palm Pasha, who was executed after I escaped and whose body was thrown to the dogs in the streets.
My duty was to receive reports from the spy lieutenants and turn them over to the sultan, who, from morning to late at night, passed his time in reading up these reports.

"Then the master would call me in and order me to do away with the man who was reported being mixed in a revolutionary plot. Then the man was brought to Yildiz. Seldom were any questions put to him. He was shot or thrown into the sea of Marmore with an iron ring tied to his feet. His property was confiscated and divided among the palace officials. In fact, such booty went mostly to Palm Pasha or myself."

"To arrest innocent individuals in order to extort money from their wealthy relatives was a common trick. The Armenian massacres were all premeditated, plotted and carried out by the officers at Yildiz, with the consent of Abdul Hamid, to enable Nazim and Izzet Pashas to make their fortunes."

Armenian Massacres.
"In 1895, when Haxim Pasha was the head of the police and I was the prefect in Constantinople, the Armenian revolutionary demonstration was planned at the police headquarters, Sislian and Etaphan Melik, two prominent members of the Armenian Hunhchagist committee, with Nazim Pasha, arranged the whole affair, and when the demonstration took place at Babali thousands of Armenians were slaughtered."

"The same methods were followed in 1896, when the Armenian Droshakists entered the Ottoman bank with bombs. The demonstrators were protected and sent over to Europe while 26,000 Armenians were murdered in the streets of Constantinople."

"Nazim Pasha made a fortune out of all these organized massacres. This terrorized Sultan Hamid, who always ready to sacrifice everything for his personal safety. Nazim Pasha or Izzet Pasha would go to him and whisper in his ear of new conspiracies and receive huge sums to suppress them. Each conspiracy was a fiction and the money went into their pockets."

Sultan Ordered Murders.
"Abdul ordered the massacres, but he was ignorant of the fact that his own men had organized the revolutionary demonstrations."

"For years this state of affairs went on until the present change. But I have no confidence in the young Turks and Sultan Abdul Hamid will soon re-establish the old regime."

"Young Turks are not ripe and not acquainted with the affairs of government. In the crisis which confronts Turkey today she has not a single statesman who will be able to master the situation."

"The banishment of the sultan's creatures does not mean that the old regime is ended. Corruption exists now; it is in the heart of a Turk, no matter whether he be old or young.
Turks can not get away from their old traditions and customs. If one of them should cut his mustache in Turkey as I have mine it would be his last day."

Says All Turks Alike.
"I am a Tartar and have no respect for the Turks. What have they done for humanity? Their religion is foreign. Their language is a mixture of Arabic and Persian. They have no architecture and no original literature. Even the system of government they inherited from the old Byzantine empire. The only way to save Turkey is to put it under European control."

BATTLE ON TRAIN

PHYSICIAN SHOT AND KILLED
BY INSURANCE MAN.

Dr. A. H. Sayres Meets Death in a Fight With Wesley Wilkes—Both
From Bluefields, W. Va.

Eckman, W. Va., Sept. 5.—Dr. A.
H. Sayres, a prominent physician of Bluefields, W. Va., was shot and instantly killed by Wesley Wilkes, a well known insurance man of the same city. The shooting occurred in a Pullman car of the Norfolk & Western train, just as the train was pulling into this station. Two shots were fired, both bullets penetrating the left side. Dr. Sayres and Wilkes had been enemies for a few months, said to have been the result of the latter filing charges against the doctor, resulting in his being expelled from the order of Elks. The men met on the train, and Dr. Sayres struck two blows at Wilkes, felling him to the floor. Wilkes, while down, drew a pistol and killed his antagonist. Both men were promi-nently known over southern West Virginia.

The Week In Society.

SOC. . . . . N7 qore f. q. 65. . . . .

The Change.

Blinded and winged, Love came to me—

I wondered at his guise—

"Why, he will fly with wings," quoth I.

"And blind—he is not wise."

And straightway clipped his wings and tore

The kerchief from his eyes.

I made him over to my whim—

Bereft of flight he lies;

A changeling lad, dull-eyed and sad.

Who views the world with sighs.

That was a rose-hued kerchief once

He wore across his eyes.

He may not fly—by needs must see—

He should be glad thereof;

It was my whim did this for him.

All carelessness to prove.

So wise and wingless he, sometime,

I doubt if he be Love.

The Sun is authorized to announce Wade Brown a candidate for reelection to the office of city jailer, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Daily Thought.

The best fitting for divine work is faithfulness in daily work.

Be it said to the credit of the late Russell Sage, that, although he loaned a million or so on bad securities, there are no evidences of his ever having invested in any of Tom Lawson's projects.

The winner of the Marathon race is going on the vaudeville stage to tell the story of the race. In olden times minstrels sang the triumphs of their heroes; but modesty never was a characteristic of the American people.

The Murray Ledger this week publishes a card from about 100 of Judge Thomas Cook's neighbors, who declare he is a high minded jurist. Having proved his character by the testimony of sufficient witnesses, is it too much now to expect Judge Cook to establish a complete alibi?

Germany caused a disturbance of the powers, parties to the Algeiras convention, by bluntly declaring that Mulai Hadd, the successful pretender to the Moroccan throne, should be officially recognized. France grew excited and England nervous. Now it turns out that France had loaned heavily to Abd-El-Aziz, the deposed monarch, and wanted Mulai to secure the payment before he was recognized, while England suspected that Germany was making a strong bid for special favors by supporting the new sultan. International relations, after all, are much like our school day feuds and friendships.

MATINEE RACES AND HORSE BREEDING.

One of the peculiar and interesting facts in connection with the general revival of racing over the country through the medium of local matinee clubs, is the improved demand for a kind of horse that at one time was a drug on the market. These animals, most of them combination gaited, possess a style and speed that distinguish them from the ordinary roadster, while they lack sufficient speed to put them in the first ranks of grand circuit racers. Until the matinee races became so popular everywhere these beautiful animals found few buyers. Now the market for them probably is better than that for any other sort of horse. Better looking horses are seen on the streets of every city in the country and interesting races can be arranged in most any town on a week's notice between local races.

In New York the cry of the race track gamblers against Governor Hughes' anti-gambling crusade was that racing improved the breed of horses. Such a claim may be far-fetched with regard to those over-bred swift animals never intended to pull a buggy or give a man a moment's comfort or pleasure; but in Paducah and every other city we have ocular demonstration of the fact that the matinee races have stimulated pride in horsemanship, and given us better looking steppers on our streets.

MAYOR SMITH'S VETO.

Mayor Smith in the recent exercise of his veto power has courteously set forth cogent reasons for his act, and there is little likelihood that members of the general council, who voted for the measure, will resent this executive interference. It must always be conceded that a man in the mayor's chair has better opportunities for calm reflection on such matters than the members of the general council under the circumstances, and it was as much to save the members of the general council from the unforeseen effects of precipitate action, as anything else, that the wise veto provision was inserted in the charter. Moreover, it requires courage of the better sort for a man to take the action Mayor Smith did, when his relations with the legislative department are so cordial. He has never been partisan or capricious and his stand can only win the further admiration of those men, who have been associated with him in city affairs.

The mayor's message, which was published yesterday in full, in order that the members of the general council might have time in which to study the reasons and criticize them if they desire, was statesmanlike, both in its inclusive reasoning and in its reserve. Mayor Smith has taken no radical stand on any issue; he has simply studied out a question that is presented him every day in one form or another, and has set forth his conclusion and the process by which he arrived at it, for the scrutiny of the general council. If the members think the mayor's position correct, they will no doubt acknowledge it, realizing that, perhaps, anyone of them, viewing the matter from the same point of vantage, would have come to the same conclusion.

Mayor Smith closes with a sentence that borders close on the realm of epigram, when he says:

"Any ordinance which will tend to breed complications, litigation and trouble, in divers and sundry ways, without in any way or manner benefitting the community, is one that should be rejected."

General benefit of the community should be kept ever in sight by our law makers. There are times, of course, when the amelioration of the condition of some particular class of citizens is really a measure benefitting the whole community; but there is too much class legislation, too many "niggers in the woodpile," too many ulterior motives behind a large percent of the laws proposed in all legislative bodies.

SOLDIERS

ENTITLED TO PAY FOR ENLISTMENT IN LATE WAR.

The Spanish-American War Veterans Have $30,000 Due Them From State.

Sheriff Ogilvie has received a list of about 1,000 names of Spanish-American war soldiers, who enlisted from Kentucky that have not been paid the money due them from the date of their enlistment until they were mustered into the regular service. About 80 per cent of the soldiers have been paid, but there yet remains $30,000 to be distributed among men who have never applied for their pro rata. The lists of names and the companies and regiments to which they belonged has been posted at the county court house on request of the adjutant general, who has charge of the money.

DUN'S REVIEW.

New York Sept. 5.—Dispatches to Dun's Review indicate a better volume of retail trade, and preparation for fall and winter provides more activity at jobbing and wholesale houses. There is a decided gain in the active machinery at leading manufacturing industries, but mercantile payments are still irregular. Jobbers at New Orleans report more numerous orders and lumber is active while the retail trade is fair, but collections are still slow.

Business at Chicago continues to show steady, though slow, recovery, confidence improving as new demands increase factory output, and agricultural conditions meet sanguine anticipations. Mercantile collections here are very satisfactory. Trade is quiet at Cleveland, but improvement is noted in some lines, while manufacturers of clothing are busy on fall orders.

Industrial forces are being enlarged, but payments are still irregular. A slight improvement is noted in the dry goods business at Cincinnati, especially with jobbers, while footwear sales have increased, but collections are very slow.

A quarrel merely proves that one of the parties to it hasn't any more sense than the other.

The Port of Missing Men.

By Meredith Nicholson.

Copyright, 1907, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company.

He spoke drawlingly, with a lazy good humor in his tones, and Shirley's wits took advantage of his deliberation to consider the situation from several points of view. Chauvenet stood looking from Shirley to the man and back again. He was by no means a coward, and he did not in the least relish the thought of owing his safety to a woman. But the confidence with which Shirley addressed the man and her apparent familiarity with the peculiarities of the mountaineers impressed him. He spoke to her rapidly in French.

"Assure me that I never heard of him before in my life—that the idea of seeking him never occurred to me."

The rifle, a repeater of the newest type, went to the man's shoulder in a flash and the blue barrel pointed at Chauvenet's head.

"None of that! I reckon the American language air good enough for these 'ere negotiations."

Chauvenet shrugged his shoulders but he gazed into the muzzle of the rifle unflinchingly.

"The gentleman was merely explaining that you are mistaken, that he does not know you and never heard of you before, and that he has not been looking for you in the mountains or anywhere else."

"You air a liar, seh!"

As Shirley spoke these words very slowly and distinctly she questioned for the first time Chauvenet's position. Perhaps, after all, the mountaineer had a real cause of grievance. It seemed wholly unlikely, but while she listened to the man's reply she weighed the matter judicially. They were in an unfrequented part of the mountains, which cottagers and hotel guests rarely explored. The mountaineer was saying:

"Mountain folks air slow, and we don't know much, but a stranger don't ride through these hills more than once for the scenery. The second time he's got to tell why, and the third time—well, miss, you kin tell the little fella' that there ain't no third time."

Chauvenet flushed, and he ejaculated hotly:

"I have never been here before in my life."

The man dropped the rifle into his arm without taking his eyes from Chauvenet. He said succinctly, but still with his drawl:

"You air a liar, seh!"

Chauvenet took a step forward, looked again into the rifle barrel and stopped short. Fanny, bored by the prolonged interview, bent her neck and nibbled at a weed.

"This gentleman has been in America only a few weeks. You are certainly mistaken, friend," said Shirley boldly. Then the color flashed into her face as an explanation of the mountaineer's interest in a stranger riding the hills occurred to her.

"My friend," she said, "I am Miss Claiborne. You may know my father's house down in the valley. We have been coming here as far back as I can remember."

The mountaineer listened to her gravely, and at her last words he unconsciously nodded his head. Shirley, seeing that he was interested, seized her advantage.

"I have no reason for misleading you. This gentleman is not a revenue man. He probably never heard of a—still, do you call it?—in his life." And she smiled upon him sweetly. "But if you will let him go I promise to satisfy you entirely in the matter."

Chauvenet started to speak, but Shirley arrested him with a gesture and spoke again to the mountaineer in her most engaging tone:

"We are both mountaineers, you and I, and we don't want any of our people to be carried off to jail. Isn't that so? Now let this gentleman ride away, and I shall stay here until I have quite assured you that you are mistaken about him."

She signaled Chauvenet to mount, holding the mystified and reluctant mountaineer with her eyes. Her heart was thumping fast, and her hand shook a little as she tightened her grasp on the rein. She addressed Chauvenet in English as a mark of good faith to his captor.

"Ride on, monsieur. Do not wait for me."

"But it is growing dark. I cannot leave you alone, mademoiselle. You have rendered me a great service, when it is I who should have extricated you!"

"Pray do not mention it. It is a mere chance that I am able to help. I shall be perfectly safe with this gentleman."

The mountaineer took off his hat.

"Thank ye, miss," he said, and then to Chauvenet, "Get out!"

"Don't trouble about me in the least, M. Chauvenet," and Shirley affirmed the last word with a nod as Chauvenet jumped into his saddle and rode off. When the swift gallop of his horse had carried him out of sight and sound down the road, Shirley faced the mountaineer.

"What is your name?"

"Tom Selfridge."

"Whom did you take that man to be, Mr. Selfridge?" asked Shirley, and in her eagerness she bent down above the mountaineer's bare tangle of tow.

"The name you called him ain't it. It's a queer name I never heered tell on befo'—it's like the a'ny—"

"Is it Armitage?" asked Shirley quickly.

"That's it, miss! The postmaster over at Lamar told me to look out fer 'im. He's moved up hy'eh, and it ain't fer no good. The word's out that a city man's looking for something or somebody in these hills. And the man's stayin'!"

"Where?"

"At the huntin' club where folks don't go no more. I ain't seen him, but th' word's passed. He's a city man and a stranger and got a little fella' that's been a soldier into th' army stayin' with 'im. I thought yo' furrier was him, miss, honest to God I did."

The incident amused Shirley, and she laughed aloud. She had undoubtedly gained information that Chauvenet had gone forth to seek; she had—and the thing was funny—served Chauvenet well in explaining away his presence in the mountains and getting him out of the clutches of the mountaineer, while at the same time she was learning for herself the fact of Armitage's whereabouts and keeping it from Chauvenet. It was a curious adventure, and she gave her hand smilingly to the mystified and still doubting mountaineer.

"I give you my word of honor that neither man is a government officer and neither one has the slightest interest in you. Will you believe me?"

"I reckon I got to, Miss."

"Good, and now, Mr. Selfridge, it is growing dark, and I want you to walk down this trail with me until we come to the Storm Springs road."

"I'll do it gladly, Miss."

"Thank you. Now let us be off."

She made him turn back when they reached a point from which they could look upon the electric lights of the Springs colony and where the big hotel and its piazzas shone like a steamship at night. A moment later Chauvenet, who had waited impatiently, joined her, and they rode down together.

She referred at once to the affair with the mountaineer in her most frivolous key.

"They are an odd and suspicious people, but they're as loyal as the stars. And please let us never mention the matter again—not to any one, if you please, monsieur."

HIS HOG PEN

COST BUD HOWARD $5 IN THE POLICE COURT.

Extends Pen Two Feet Inside City Limits and Court Takes Jurisdiction.

Because Bud Howard, colored, was so unfortunate as to have his hog pen extending past the city limits two feet, he was fined $5 and costs this morning in police court on a charge of breach of ordinance. Residents of Glenwood, near the city limits, swore that the stench from the hog pen was a nuisance.

Assistant City Engineer, Robert Richardson swore that Howard owned exactly an acre of ground, as he made a plat of it. It extends two feet over the city line, and Howard swore that he kept eight hogs in the enclosure. The food was kept on a stand further back, and was outside the city, but owing to the odor, Judge Cross ordered Howard to move the hogs and assessed a fine of $5 and costs extra.

FIREMEN COMPLETED A WAGON FOR FISHING.

This afternoon the firemen at the No. 2 fire station completed their fishing wagon, and now the firemen are ready to go to the lakes. It took the firemen only ten days to build the wagon, which rivals a regular wagon builder's time. The wagon is equipped with lockers and places for the nets, and is made with a top so that it may be utilized as sleeping quarters. It will be ideal for duck hunting and fishing trips, and the firemen expect to have much pleasure. Since they have been so successful with the wagon, Captain Slaughter and his men are considering putting in a gasoline engine so that they may be up-to-date, and have an automobile fishing wagon.

Don't Like Confetti.

The substitution of confetti throwing for rice showers, an innovation that has been practiced in Paducah recently when newlyweds were leaving the city for honeymoon trips, has met with serious objection from railroad officials and trainmen, who declare that arrests will be made the next time it occurs. It is said that the newlyweds are not the only ones "showered," but passengers and trainmen, too, are given doses of the "peppy" bits of paper that find lodging places in their mouths, eyes and clothing.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

The skin is an index to the quality of the blood. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, pimples, rashes, eruptions, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is poisoning and corrupting the circulation, so that instead of supplying nourishment and strength to the fine, delicate tissues of the skin, it is continually pouring out its acid and unhealthy accumulations. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomfort caused by skin troubles, and for this reason should be used, but such treatment cannot reach the humor-laden blood, and therefore cannot cure. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., a purely vegetable preparation, is the best and quickest remedy. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes and removes the acids, impurities and humors, thoroughly purifies the circulation and permanently cures skin diseases of every kind. When S. S. S. has driven the humors and impurities from the blood, and cooled and cleansed the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with rich, healthful blood and the trouble cured, as the cause has been removed. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

It was a light-weight hoghead of common quality and out of condition, and sold for $10.25 per hundred. It was grown in Hart county.

"Dark—The market continues quiet and unchanged for dark tobacco, both for the fired and unfired types.

GOV. HUGHES SPEECH

the honorable conduct of affairs in which all our citizens take just pride. The dignity and honor of the nation have been maintained and troublesome difficulties have been adjusted with an access of prestige. And every American has been gratified by the possession of world-wide influence attained by the president by reason both of his personal qualities and because of the distinction in our international relations of the administration of which he has been the head.

"In the management of internal affairs honesty and efficiency have been insisted upon. Lovers of the public domain, those endeavoring to maintain combinations in unlawful restraint of trade and those seeking involving a program of legislation or of constitutional amendment. But first and chiefly we are electing a president, the executive of the nation. Nor should we in considering legislative proposals forget this. Now there is no man in the country better fitted properly to preside over and direct the varied business of the executive department than Mr. Taft. He already knows it thoroughly. He has rare executive ability. No one is better qualified than he to do the work which under the constitution the president is called upon to perform.

The Supreme Court.
"Not only will the coming election directly affect the executive branch of the government, but it is most important in its relation to the judicial branch. Rarely has the choice of president involved more far-reaching consequences. For it is not improbable that the next president will appoint at least four judges of the United States supreme court. Upon these appointments will largely depend the quality of the judicial work of this great court for five years to come. Congress may pass laws, but the supreme court interprets and construes them, and determines their validity. The constitution, with its guarantees of liberty and its grants of federal power, is finally what the supreme court determines it to mean. Upon the learning, the wisdom and character of the judges of the supreme court rests not merely the just determination of the important matters of private right which come before that august tribunal, but to a very large degree the course of our political history and the development and security of our institutions. In view of the vacancies which in the natural course of events will most probably occur during the next few years, we must remember that are about to choose a representative of the people to whom is confided the nomination of federal judges, a power second to none possessed by the president, the exercise of which calls for the highest judgment. If we should search the country for a delegate of the people who could be confidently entrusted with this important duty, it is probable that no one could command higher confidence than the Republican candidate for president. Himself a judge, learned in the wisdom of the law, he commanded the respect and esteem of the entire bar of the country, without regard to partisan division. By litigants and lawyers alike it was felt that when he left his important place upon the circuit court of appeals to undertake his difficult duties in the Philippines, the judicial branch of the government had sustained a most serious loss. And he has long been regarded as one in every worthy to succeed the present chief justice of the United States. With his fairness and acumen, with his wide knowledge of the bar from which the judges must be recruited, with his broadmindedness and Democratic sympathy, and his keen interest in all that pertains to the welfare of the people, we may be assured that if he is selected to perform this duty the interests of the country will be impartially and wisely safeguarded in its discharge."

Republican Legislation.
"When we consider the inevitable conflict of many opinions and the importance of the questions involved the record of progressive legislation is extraordinary. The creation of the bureau of corporations, the railroad rate bill, the pure food bill, the meat inspection bill, the employers' liability bill, and the laws passed for the better protection of labor, constitute a record of legislation which no just critic can afford to minimize and which attests in a marked manner the response of the Republican party under its forceful leadership to the demands of the people."

Democratic Proposals.
"If all that Mr. Bryan has favored during the past twelve years had been enacted into law we should have been overwhelmed with disaster and would regard it as our chief business in the future to find a way of escape from the meshes of ill-considered legislation in which we would have been entangled. It is fortunate for him as well as for us that he was defeated, and whatever may be his present political potentiality, may be ascribed to the fact that hitherto he has not been permitted to carry out his program. No doubt much remains to be accomplished in the way of necessary reform, but the record already made by the Republican party is a noteworthy one and we must make further advances with care and needed reflection. Our progress will be entrusted to safe hands and we shall be fortunate in having a sailing master who knows his chart and who will take quite as much account of reefs and shoals as of the speed of the vessel. We have got our direction, we have a most precious cargo and we must have a safe and experienced pilot."

"Mr. Bryan says that the Democratic platform 'is binding as to what it omits as well as to what it contains.' He might have added that it is as insignificant in the one case as in the other. Lincoln said: 'In the absence of formal written platforms the antecedents of candidates become their platforms.' It may also be said that in the presence of formal written platforms the antecedents of candidates cannot be forgotten. Silence is often eloquent. In the election this fall we choose men, not abstractions. Platforms must be read in the light of history and they may be eloquent of past mistakes and misguided agitations which their sponsors would gladly ignore, but which the nation will do well to remember."

Candidates Contrasted.
"There are a thousand exigencies in the affairs of this great nation which cannot be foreseen or attempted to be controlled by any platform. The sagacity, the steadiness of character, firmness and sound judgment of the chief executive must be the security of the nation in many a trying emergency. And it is no injustice to Mr. Bryan's attractive personal qualities, to his effectiveness as an orator, his skill as a party leader, nor is it any disparagement of the purity of his motives to say that the man who espoused free silver in 1906, renewed its advocacy in 1909 and later declared his belief in government ownership of railroads cannot be regarded as a safe leader to whom may be confided the great powers of the president merely because those doctrines are omitted from his present platform. The country needs a man rock-based in sound conviction and fundamental principle, in whose good judgment in any difficulty all may feel secure, and such man pre-eminently is William Howard Taft."

"Our opponents seem to regard the questions before us as simply involving a program of legislation or of constitutional amendment. But first and chiefly we are electing a president, the executive of the nation. Nor should we in considering legislative proposals forget this. Now there is no man in the country better fitted properly to preside over and direct the varied business of the executive department than Mr. Taft. He already knows it thoroughly. He has rare executive ability. No one is better qualified than he to do the work which under the constitution the president is called upon to perform."

Questions Which Are Not Issues.
Some questions which are discussed with no little vigor can hardly be considered as campaign issues. Mr. Bryan desires United States senators to be chosen by direct vote of the people in the several states. Mr. Taft also inclines to favor this course. And I am glad he does.

"But this can be accomplished only by constitutional amendment, and such amendment can be had only when ratified by three-fourths of the states. This would hardly seem to be an issue upon which to select a president. In case of congressional initiative two-thirds of both houses must concur in order to present the amendment for ratification. Or if the states desire the amendment and there is any such presentment as promises the necessary ratification, two-thirds of the states may require a convention to be called for the purpose. Further, any state may, if it desires, provide for a direct vote which will generally be treated by the legislature as binding because of its expression of the wish of the people. This is the case in a number of states where senators are practically chosen by direct vote now. But as long as there are twelve states who do not desire the amendment, the constitutional provision for the election of senators by the legislatures cannot be changed."

Again, Mr. Bryan objects to the present rules of the house of representatives and complains that it is no longer a "deliberative body." How to make the procedure of a body of nearly four hundred members more fully deliberative while at the same time to make provision for the proper dispatch of business, how to give greater freedom and how to escape from the alleged tyranny of the speaker without creating a new tyranny of the minority, is a question which parliamentarians may discuss to advantage. It would be well to have some definite statement of the amendments desired and an opportunity to judge their effect. In any event, the members of the house will make such rules as they think best and the general suggestions of the Democratic platform on this point can hardly be regarded as pertinent to the presidential campaign."

Election Laws.
"Mr. Bryan also has much to say with regard to corrupt practices and campaign expenditures. But he offers to give due credit to the Republican party for what it has accomplished with regard to these important reforms, an accomplishment more noteworthy in the light of Mr. Bryan's reiterated criticisms of contributions to Republican campaign funds. In the state of New York a Republican legislature in 1906 passed a statute prohibiting corporations from making any political contributions directly or indirectly and providing that officers, directors or stockholders participating in or consenting to the violation of the law should be guilty of a criminal offense. And I know of no more drastic statute in this country with regard to the publicity of campaign contributions and for the prevention of corrupt practices than that passed in New York under Republican auspices. These were not promises of an opposition party seeking power, but enactments by a party in power securing genuine reforms. Proper recognition must of course be given to the patriotic Democrats who supported these reforms, but they were enacted by a Republican administration. Congress has also legislated against political contributions by corporations. Purity of elections and free opportunity for the uncorrupted expression of the popular will lie at the foundation of every reform and cannot be too carefully safeguarded. And there should be federal legislation securing proper publicity of and accounting for campaign contributions in connection with federal elections. But this must fairly be recognized that the skirts of neither party have been clean. If we search Mr. Bryan's following we shall find not a few who have sinned, and also those who, if we may judge from their local activities, are still unrepentant. The Democratic party cannot claim unblemished virtue either with regard to the source of its revenues or its readiness to receive them. And when criticism is meted out to the Republican party on this score justice requires that it should also receive credit for the reforms it has achieved."

Revision of the Tariff.
"Both parties demand a revision of the tariff. But they differ in the principle and aim of such revision. The Republican party stands for the policy of protection. It maintains its historic position in defense of American standards of living and of the American scale of wages. The Democratic party seeks, as Mr. Bryan construes its platform, to overthrow protection and to establish a revenue tariff. Instead of adjustment of the protective rates and a fair arrangement of schedules consistent with the long established policy of the country under which our trade has been developed and our industrial activities have attained their notable expansion, he insists on an overthrow of the entire system of protection, thus threatening the dislocation of trade and the most serious disturbance of industry. He seeks not tariff revision but tariff revolution. Mr. Bryan appears to recognize the serious consequences of such a course and in announcing his position he hastens to assure us that 'the Democratic plan does not contemplate an immediate change from one system to the other; it expressly declares that the change shall be gradual, and a gradual change is only possible where the country is satisfied with the results of each step taken.' This opens a vista of indefinite tariff tinkering to accomplish the desired object."

"Revision there must be. It should be prompt, thorough and fair. But the policy of protection will maintain and American industry, involving the interests of our wage-earners, must be properly safeguarded."

Difference of Principle.
"But it is urged that the Republican party cannot be trusted to make a fair revision of the tariff. Those who are opposed to a protective tariff and whose aim is to put the tariff upon a revenue basis can no more be trusted to make a revision consistent with the policy of protection than those who believe in protection can be expected to adjust the tariff to purposes solely of revenue."

INGERSOLL'S SWEETHEART.

Mrs. Simpson Said to Have Been Love of Agnostic.

The story comes from Shawneetown, Ill., says the Brookport Eagle, that Mrs. William Simpson, formerly Miss Hannah Selby, who died here recently, was a former sweetheart of Robert G. Ingersoll. The distinguished infidel spent his early life in Shawneetown, as a school teacher. It seems that he was a somewhat awkward youth and the pretty Miss Selby scorned his suit, in spite of the fact that her father, John W. Selby, favored him, evidently seeing the promise of a brilliant future for the young school teacher.

It is said that Mr. Ingersoll got his first inclination toward infidelity in religious views from Mr. Selby, who was a shoemaker, and the young school teacher spent much time in his shop listening to his ideas.

EMPLOYED WOMEN DEMONSTRATORS

To Show Up Oil of Independent in Kentucky.

Denies Standard Placed Wagons Under Pretense They Were Not In Combine.

WAS NO UNFAIR COMPETITION.

New York, Sept. 5.—When the hearing of the government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company, of New Jersey, was resumed today, Moritz Rosenthal, counsel for the defense, called to the witness stand C. T. Colling, second vice president of the Standard Oil company of Kentucky. The witness denied that the Standard had placed wagons in that field under the pretense that they were independent enterprises, that the company might retain control of the local trade. The witness said they found a number of local peddlers who claimed that they were independent, and were also supplying oil superior to that offered by the Standard. To retain its trade, the witness explained, the company employed young women to visit the houses and demonstrate that the Standard's kerosene was equally as good as that of their independent competitors. "We demonstrated," said Mr. Colling, "that the oils were practically the same, and that the payment of an increased price was entirely unnecessary."

Decatur, Ill., was one of the cities named by the witness where young women had been employed. The Standard had also, according to the witness, experienced considerable difficulty in breaking up an opposition plan whereby the competing wagons gave short measure to local consumers, which the Standard, by cutting the rate and coming into the field with a similar equipment, had broken up. Testimony concerning the so-called unfair competition in Kentucky and Illinois occupied the hearing during the morning session.

Oil Business in Kentucky.
Continuing his testimony, Mr. Colling told about the oil business in Kentucky. He said that no instructions had been given to cut into the prices of the "red C" company, one of the Standard's principal competitors in that field. No funds had ever been placed at his disposal, said the witness, to provide for cuts in prices. Mr. Colling denied that the price of oil had been reduced as low as 8 cents in Atlanta in 1887 and later to 6 cents, to retain the business.

Asked about 50 and 75 per cent. rebates said to have been allowed by the Standard Oil company to its trade the witness said that such discounts were at that time general in the oil trade, as they had been for many years, and generally allowed to jobbers in their territory.

The witness continued to deny that the Standard Oil company had in any way attempted unfair competition of price discrimination in his territory, which embraced portions of Illinois and all of Kentucky. He told of the purchase by the Standard of the People's Oil company, organized in Atlanta, Ga., as an independent concern. He denied that he had given any instructions to operate the concern as an independent company, but said that the previous owners had conducted it for the Standard to determine what the good will was worth.

PIGEON ROOST

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD NEAR SCOTTSBURG, IND.

Ninety-six Years Since the Atrocious Crime—Victims of British Money.

Scottsburg, Ind., Sept. 5.—Nearly 2,000 people attended the ninety-sixth anniversary of the Pigeon Roost massacre at Pigeon Roost monument, five miles south of here. Services were held in Harbald Grove, near the monument. The memorial address was delivered in the morning by the Rev. G. L. Peck. Addresses were made in the afternoon by Congressman William E. Cox and Capt. James W. Fortune. The old settlers on the speakers' stand were Asbury Whitson, Newton Collings, Isaac Houghland and Zebulon Collings, the latter a son of the only man who successfully defended his home at the time of the massacre. The monument was erected by the legislature in 1904 and dedicated October 1. The monument is a forty-two-foot shaft of Bedford limestone on a beautiful base, on one side of which is a large bronze cast showing the scene of massacre. An old sassafras tree, which alone marked the spot through several generations, is still living, and is over four feet in diameter. It was held almost sacred by the people of the county before the monument was placed. No markings were at the graves save a few rough fragments of stone. Twenty-four settlers lost their lives, most of whom were women and children, as the Indians were atrocious in their work of slaughter, piercing the children on sharp sticks after scalping them alive. This is just an example of the ferocity of the savages, as a reward was offered by the British government for the scalps.

The victims were Henry Collings and wife, Mrs. Richard Collings and seven children, Mrs. John Morris, child and mother, Elias Payne, wife and seven children.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers are small pills, easy to take, gentle and sure. Sold by all druggists.

State Agent Green Says Plenty of Farm Laborers Can Be Had for Transportation.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 5.—Louisville may have a branch office of the immigration so as to enable Kentucky to get better results from immigration. Mr. Green has filed his report for August with M. C. Rankin, commissioner of agriculture, showing that plenty of farm laborers, of the kind desired by the farmers of Kentucky, can be secured if transportation is sent. The immigrants, Mr. Green
